HIS LIFE'S WORK ENDED

Senator Marcus Alonzo Hanna
Passed Away Early Monday
Evening in Washington.Interment Will Take Place in Lakeview Cemetery, Cleveland, Friday,
February 19, After Impressive
Services in St. Paul Church.

Washington, Feb. 16.—Senator Marcus Alonzo Hanna died at 6:40 o'clock Monday evening at the family apartments in the Arlington hotel, after an illness extending over nearly two months, filled with apparent recoveries, followed by relapses and finally drifting into typhoid fever, which in his weakened condition he was unable to withstand. When the end came all the members of the senator's family were in the room except Mrs. Hanna, the senator's wife, and Mr. and Mrs. Dan Hanna. Mrs. Hanna had left the room only a few minutes before.

The last sinking spell began at exactly 6:30 o'clock. Drs. Carter and Osler were then in attendance. They did not conceal the fact that life was about to end and all members of the family were sent for. Mrs. McCormick, one of the senator's daughters, and Miss Phelps were present when the end came.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Hanna were the capitol building at 4:45 p.m. and was escorted to the railway station by the committee of senators and representatives which had charge of the funeral in the senate chamber.

The train consisted of one baggage car, a dining car, two Pullman sleepers, a private car and an observation car. The observation car was cleared of all its observation seats and in this space the casket was placed. Around it were banked the many floral offerings and nearly every seat remaining in the car held one or more of these perfumed burdens. The car carrying the remains was the first in the train. The funeral party is composed of the

Mrs. M. A. Hanna, Mr. H. M. Hanna, Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Hanna, Mr. and Mrs. J. Medill McCormick, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Parsons, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Dover, Miss Mary E. Phelps, Mr. and Mrs. Prentiss Baldwin, Gov. Myron T. Herrick, Bishop Leonard, Andrew Squire, Gen. and Mrs. Charles A. Dick, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Fisher, Dr. E. P. Carter, J. H. Dempsey, Miss Morton (nurse), Frank V. Bennett, John Kinsley and several servants.

The Funeral Will Be a Magnificent Display of Affection.

Cleveland, O., Feb. 17.—At the conference of representative citizens held in the city hall Tuesday afternoon it developed that the funeral of Senator Hanna is likely to be one of the most magnificent displays of affection that has ever been shown an individual.

TOUCHING INCIDENT.

Had Senator Hanna a Premonition of Death?

Representative Smith Relates a Remarkable Conversation He Had With Him Regarding a Centennial Celebration.

Washington, Feb. 17.—Representative William Alden Smith, of Michigan, related at the white house Tuesday a touching incident of a recent conversation he had with Senator Hanna. He went to Senator Hanna in the senate chamber one day and invited him to attend, as one of the distinguished men of the country, the semi-centennial celebration of the founding of the republican party, to be held at Jackson, Mich., on July 6, next.

"I don't know where I will be then," was the senator's pathetic reply to the invitation.

"Why, you will be right here, of course," returned Representative Smith, reassuringly.

"No," replied Mr. Hanna, "I'm afraid I won't."

"I walked to the rear of the senate chamber," said Mr. Smith, "and, looking back at the senator, wondered if he had a premonition that he might not live long. The impression made by his words never left me."

As Speaker Cannon left the president's office Tuesday he did not attempt to disguise the sorrow he felt at the death of Senator Hanna. "Yes," said he, "I knew him very well, and I liked him, very much—very much. I remember, I told Mrs. Hanna one time that I liked her husband as much as it was lawful for one man to like another." But he got no further. His voice choked with emotion, and unrestrained, tears streamed down his cheeks.

At the meeting of the cabinet Tuesday the death of the Ohio senator was lamented deeply. All the members entertained for him the profoundest regard and respect. The opportunity afforded by the meeting was embraced by all present to pay personal tributes to their dead friend. Little business was transacted. The members decided to assemble at the white house at or about 11 o'clock Wednesday to accompany the president to the capitol to attend the senate funeral services.

AT THE WHITE HOUSE.

President and Attaches Shared in the General Sorrow.

Washington, Feb. 17.—At the white house Tuesday the president and all the attaches shared in the general sorrow over the death of Senator Hanna. President Roosevelt, the members of his cabinet, senators and representatives in congress and callers of all classes sadly paid tribute to the memory of the dead statesman. From the entrance of the lamented McKinley into the white house, Senator Hanna was a conspicuous figure at the executive mansion. Both before and after he became a member of the senate, Mr. Hanna was a frequent caller at the white house, and his visits have been frequent since Mr. Roosevelt succeeded to the presidency. President Roosevelt entertained a cordial regard for Senator Hanna and the senator cordially reciprocated that feeling. Their personal regard was based on the firmest respect. While they differed at times, as strong men may differ, their personal relations never were endangered by the differences. Indeed, so high was the regard in which the president held Mr. Hanna's ability as a political manager and as a potent force in national affairs that a few months ago he requested him urgently in the event of his nomination for the presidency to assume again the cares and responsibilities of directing the national campaign. While it was feared Mr. Hanna's ill health might induce him to decline again to accept the chairmanship of the republican national committee, he had not returned at the time he was stricken by his fatal sickness a final answer to the president's request.

OHIOANS SOREL AFFLICTED.

Three Times Within Five Weeks Have They Been Grieved By Death.

Columbus, O., Feb. 18.—Gov. Herrick telephoned from Washington Wednesday afternoon instructions for the issuance of a supplementary proclamation requesting that as a further mark of respect to the memory of the late Senator Hanna all business in the state be suspended for five minutes from 1 to 1:05 p.m., Friday, during the funeral services at Cleveland.

The joint resolution drawn up by the committee of state officers and members of the legislature pays the following tribute to the late senator:

"Three times in the space of five weeks Ohio has been shocked and grieved by the death of a distinguished citizen, whose leadership among his fellows had gained for him the highest popular favor. Two of these have filled the governor's chair with conspicuous ability; the third, facile princeps as chief of his party organization, as senator in the national congress, as broad-minded statesman and philanthropic citizen, was one of the most influential men of his time. Merging from private life less than a decade ago, and from the beginning much misunderstood and much abused, not to say cordially hated by those who didn't know him, in a few fleeting years he had compelled the admiration of all, and had won the trustful love of both. Marcus A. Hanna was a masterful man; but he was also a man of high and honorable purposes, and of genial disposition. He went straight to the mark, but there was nothing sinister in his methods. He was always out in the open, honest, zealous, frank and fair. With such method he won success and fairly earned the remarkable endorsement which called out that proud and happy utterance which is still ringing in our ears, 'And may I not say vindication?'

"We shall miss his counsel, his intrepid leadership, his loyal friendship."

Locker, of Waynesville, Mo., a member of the state legislature, arrived from Duluth, Minn., Wednesday night on his wedding trip, and was met at the hotel by Deputy Sheriff Heet and served with divorce papers on behalf of a former wife, charging him with bigamy. Locker was married January 10 to Miss Lucy Ladue, the daughter of a prominent manufacturer of Duluth. He acknowledged Wednesday night that several years ago he had been married to Miss Nora Hill near Waynesville. Mrs. Locker was grief stricken when the papers were served.

Washington, Feb. 18.—The Russian embassy is flooded with offers of assistance from Americans in various walks of life. Letters from 12 physicians arrived Wednesday. The Russian ambassador has been obliged to answer each of these offers with a personal letter, but a cordial letter of thanks is sent by the embassy to each writer. The offers are declined, as Russia, the ambassador says, does not stand in need of medical or military aid.

Miss Nellie Holmes, treasurer of the Young Woman's Temperance Association of Buffalo, N.Y., strongly advises all suffering women to rely, as she did, upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Your medicine is indeed an ideal woman's medicine, and by far the best I know to restore lost health and strength. I suffered misery for several years, being troubled with menorrhagia. My back ached, I had bearing-down pains and frequent headaches. I would often wake from restful sleep, and in such pain that I suffered for hours before I could go to sleep again. I dreaded the long nights as much as the weary days. I consulted two different physicians, hoping to get relief but finding that their medicine did not seem to cure me. I tried your Vegetable Compound on the recommendation of a friend from the East who was visiting me."

"I am glad that I followed her advice, for every ache and pain is gone, and not only this, but my general health is much improved. I have a fine appetite and have gained in flesh. My earnest advice to suffering women is to put aside all other medicines and to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—MISS NELLIE HOLMES, 540 No. Division St., Buffalo, N.Y.—$5000 forfeit if original of above letter proving genuineness cannot be produced.

Wasn't Seasick Anyhow. In crossing the ocean a father and son both became very seasick. The father recovered quickly, but the son was so exhausted with the attack that he sank into a state of apathy from which it seemed impossible to arouse him. The steamer physician, thinking he would try a sudden shock, said: "I have bad news for you. Your father is dead." The son, raising his expressionless eyes to the doctor, replied: "Lucky man!"

A Professional Nurse tells her experience with Doan's Kidney Pills. Montague, Mass.

FOSTER-MILBURN CO., Buffalo, N.Y.

Gentlemen.—I heartily wish those who are suffering from backache and disturbed action of the kidneys would try Doan's Kidney Pills. As was the case with me, they will be more than surprised with the results. I have been troubled for years with my spine. I could not lie on either side. Spinal cramps would follow, and words could not explain the agony which I would endure. While in these cramps I could not speak or move, but by making a great effort after the cramp had left me I could begin to speak and move a little, but my whole back was so sore and lame that I could not even have my back bathed for some time. My nerves were in a terrible state. I would rather sit up at night than go to bed, dreading the cramps and the terrible backaches. I consulted physicians, but got only a little relief for the time being. Seeing your advertisement, my mother urged me to try Doan's Kidney Pills. After using one box I was better, and have ever since been on the gain. I have no backache and no cramps now, and I feel like a new person. My nerves are better and I know my blood is purer. Words cannot express my thanks to you for what Doan's Kidney Pills have done for me. In my work as professional nurse I have a chance to recommend them; and they did me so much good that I will do so on every possible occasion.

MARCUS A. HANNA.

first to arrive and they withdrew immediately to the chamber of the senator's wife to summon her to the bedside. It was while they were absent the senator breathed his last.

In the meantime Mr. McCormick, Mr. and Mrs. Parsons and H. M. Hanna had entered the room. Mr. Dover stood in the door. There were no distressing incidents attending the last moments. It was a sinking spell which terminated in ten minutes. Just after his eyes closed in death Mrs. Hanna was able to come into the room. She bore up well under the ordeal and Monday night she showed calmness and bravery.

Washington, Feb. 18.—Without pomp or ceremony the remains of Senator Hanna at 11:15 Wednesday were conveyed from the Arlington hotel to the senate chamber, where the official exercises were conducted. The ceremony was dignified and simple, in consonance with the late senator's character. The senate chamber lent itself naturally to the occasion. It was practically barren of decoration, and the dark furniture, heavy walls and subdued light were quite in keeping with the sorrowful proceedings which were the occasion of the gathering. Never had a more distinguished body of people been collected in Washington to do honor, either to the living or the dead, and rarely has there been witnessed here a more impressive proceeding.

The fragrance of the floral tributes filled the great space of the senate chamber, and the display was never equalled in recent years, not excepting the time when the body of President McKinley lay in state on the great catafalque.

The train bearing the remains of Senator Hanna left Washington for Cleveland at 6 o'clock Wednesday night. On the train were all the members of the late senator's family and a number of personal friends. The casket was taken from the United States men, Spanish-American veterans and perhaps all of the several military companies of the city will participate in the funeral procession.

During the time the body remains in the chamber of commerce auditorium the guard of honor will be alternately of civil war veterans and members of the Fifth regiment.

To request Mayor Johnson to issue a proclamation that all business in the city be suspended during the hours of 12 and 2 o'clock on the day of the funeral, Friday, February 19; that the residences and business houses along the route, Euclid avenue from the station of the Pennsylvania railroad to the chamber of commerce building, be draped; that a detail of 50 policemen be stationed at the railroad depot, 100 along the line of march and 50 at the entrance to the chamber of commerce; that Adj't Gen. Critchfield, at Columbus, order Troop A, of Cleveland, for escort duty from the station to the chamber of commerce; that a delegation of the chamber drape the interior and exterior of that building.

The catafalque that was used in the lying in state of the late President McKinley, at Canton, has been secured for a similar purpose for Senator Hanna and the catafalque will arrive here Wednesday morning.

The burial will be in Lakeview cemetery, the final ceremonies being held in Wade Mortuary chapel, a beautiful structure in marble and Mosaics, but with such a limited seating capacity—perhaps 30 or 40—that the cemetery services will be private. The body will be placed in one of the receptacles in the chapel until spring. Bishop Leonard will conduct the services at the chapel.

CONCENTRATE TROOPS

Japan Has Landed 120,000 Soldiers in Corea.

Several Thousand Russian Soldiers Have Reached Antung and It Is Rumored 20,000 Russians Have Arrived at Ping Pang.

London, Feb. 17.—According to special dispatches published here Wednesday morning from Tokio, the Russian squadron has returned to Vladivostock.

The correspondent at Chemulpo of the Daily Express makes the astonishing statement that Japan has already landed 120,000 troops in Corea, 80,000 of whom are extended along the fighting front, south of the Yalu river.

According to a dispatch to the Paris edition of the New York Herald, 400 torpedoes, being two-thirds of Russia's entire available supply of these articles, were destroyed on board the Russian cruiser Varlag at Chemulpo.

The Tokio correspondent of the Daily Chronicle cables that it is stated officially that several thousand Russian troops have reached Antung and that it is rumored that 20,000 Russians have arrived at Ping Yang, on the Tungtung river, in Central Corea.

London, Feb. 17.—In a dispatch dated Port Arthur, February 13, a correspondent of the Times gives a description of seven Russian warships which he says are lying disabled there. They include the battleships Sevastopol and Petropavlovsk, which have not been named in previous reports of the action.

London, Feb. 18.—Japan is most successfully keeping her plans secret. Not a single item of news which could be of possible service to the enemy has been permitted to leak out. The belief is prevalent in London, based on hints in dispatches from correspondents, is that her main objective will be found to be the Liao Tung peninsula, but that nothing of a military nature will be attempted until Russia's naval squadrons are effectually dislodged.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 18.—Russian officers are leaving for the far east. These include Gen. Zalinski, who is to succeed Maj. Gen. Pfug as chief of staff to Viceroy Alexieff; Gen. Liapoff, governor of Sakhalin island, in the North Pacific, and Gen. Tserpilsky. Gen. von Sosonkampf has been appointed to command the trans-Baikal cavalry, which was reported as going out under Prince Louis Napoleon.

The various societies throughout Russia interested in the Red Cross movement are showing remarkable activity, and judging from the preparations which are being made for the sick and wounded, the war is destined to be a long and bloody one.

Voluntary contributions to replace the ships already destroyed by the enemy are already assuming large proportions, one man having given the sum of $2,000.

Sasabo, Japan, Feb. 18.—The opinion of Japanese naval officers here is that a third fight has occurred off Port Arthur, some of the Russian war vessels having been reported as leaving that place.

London, Feb. 18.—Dispatches published in London newspapers Thursday morning continue to give alleged descriptions of the embarkation of Japanese troops. Instead of this embarkation occurring secretly from Ujina, as was the case during the Chino-Japanese war, the transports, according to dispatches published in the Daily Telegraph and the Daily Mail, are openly embarking troops from Nagasaki, Moji, Kobe and elsewhere.

Tokio, Feb. 18.—It is the belief of the navy department that the Russian second-class cruiser Boyarian was torpedoed and sunk by the destroyer Heyatory in the torpedo attack on the Russian fleet at Port Arthur last Sunday morning. Lieut. Commander Tokonouchi did not know the name of the vessel struck by a torpedo discharged by the Heyatory, but the navy department has since learned from other sources that it was the Boyarian.

A dispatch from St. Petersburg dated February 16 stated that the Boyarian was blown up with a loss of 196 officers and men February 13 by a mine which it accidentally struck.

FIFTY-EIGHTH CONGRESS.

Regular Session.

Washington, Feb. 13.—Senate—The senate Friday listened to the reading by Mr. Carmak of a speech prepared by Mr. Morgan in opposition to the president's policy with reference to an isthmian canal and also considered the bill appropriating $200,000 to ex-Queen Liliuokalani, of Hawaii. Speeches in support of the bill were made by Mr. Blackburn and Mr. Mitchell and in opposition by Mr. Spooner and Mr. Platt (Ct.). Mr. Spooner moved to recommend the measure, but the vote on this motion failed to develop a quorum, so the senate was forced to adjourn until Monday.

House—Speaker Cannon took the bit in his teeth and ran completely away with legislative precedent in the house. Incidentally he broke all previous records in the dispatch of private pension bills. Under his guidance 320 of these measures of relief were passed by the house in 155 minutes. Nearly the whole of this time was consumed in committee of the whole. The house passed the bills "en bloc" under unanimous consent, which the speaker had asked for. About half of the bills were disposed of under this request without amendment. When objection was temporarily made the speaker plainly showed his displeasure by dragging the proceedings. The objection was withdrawn, whereupon the remaining bills were declared passed without even the formality of having the clerk read their numbers. Adjudged until Monday.

Washington, Feb. 16.—Senate—The suspense concerning the condition of Senator Hanna had an appreciable effect on the senate Monday, and as a result the proceedings were marked by an unusual listlessness and depression. There were no speeches on any subject whatever, and more attention was given to the frequent bulletins announcing the condition of the senator than to matters of legislation. The entire time of the legislative session was devoted to routine business, the most important matter taken up being the bill providing for a gratuity to former Queen Liliuokalani, of Hawaii, which was lost on a tie vote. Several bills were passed.

House—In voluntarily relinquishing his seat as a member of the house of representatives, Mr. Shafrroth, of the First district of Colorado, furnished a profound sensation during the 40 minutes' session Monday. The many and earnest words of the Colorado member fairly took the breath of the house as he proceeded to put the first case on record in that body where a member gave up his seat, acknowledging that his election had been tainted by fraud. For this fraud, Mr. Shafrroth declared, he was not in any way responsible, nor was he aware that it had been perpetrated until the evidence had been adduced before the elections committee of the house.

Unknown Man Shot and Killed By a Woman in West Virginia.

Bluefield, W. Va., Feb. 18.—While attempting to defend her home from the attack of an unknown man, Mrs. J. C. McDay, of McDowell county, emptied the contents of a double-barreled shotgun into her assailant's body. The dead man's name has not been learned, but it is said he was a farmer who had been ejected from the McDay house earlier in the night. The woman has not been arrested.

THE SOMETHING-WRONG PUZZLE

A GAME OF POLO.
What is wrong with the picture?

MACARONI FROM AMERICA.

Much of the Foodstuff Sold in Italy Is Prepared in This Country.

It will be a severe stab to the pride of Italy to learn that the Americans are now manufacturing macaroni, and are actually sending some abroad, says the New York Tribune. Factories for the making of macaroni are running in Philadelphia, and the owners are steadily encroaching on the business of the importers until it seems only a question of time when the macaroni used in this country will be made entirely of American wheat, in American factories by American workmen. It is all a question of wheat. At one time it was thought impossible to make good macaroni from any wheat other than that grown at Odessa and Tarasov, but now Italy and Genoa have to share the profits of the business with the macaroni makers of Marseille, in France. With America cutting into the race for wealth by the macaroni route, the national industry of Italy will be still further encroached upon.

The process of manufacturing macaroni in the Quaker city is the same as that in Europe. Only the hard wheat, which contains a large percentage of gluten, is used. The wheat is first ground into a coarse meal, from which the bran is removed. Great care has to be exercised during the grinding to keep the temperature of the room at the right point, both heat and humidity being employed to insure the result being satisfactory. The substance formed by the grinding process, sallied semola, is then worked up into a dough with water, and for macaroni and vermicelli is forced through gauges, with or without mandrels, in wire and pipe drawing; or, if pastes are required, it is rolled out in very thin sheets, from which are stamped out the various forms of stars, rings, etc. There is little difference between macaroni and the fine, threadlike vermicelli and the infinite variety of curious and elegant little forms which, under the name of Italian pastes, are used for soups.

Macaroni cannot be made every day in the year, or month, or week. It must be a dry day, or the substance from which it is made will not bind properly. Good macaroni breaks with a brittle sound like glass. When boiled it swells with an even swell and does not come apart. The inferior kind will often break of its own weight and will burst in the boiling. A visit to a macaroni factory is of interest as disclosing an industry entirely novel to American eyes. The rooms through which the factory proper is reached are hung from floors to ceiling with festoons of the macaroni drying. It is everywhere, strung over parallel poles, hanging from every place on the wall where a peg can be placed, stretched in doorways so that it has to be brushed aside to allow the visitor to pass through, and frequently strung out to dry on the roof and in the yard for want of room elsewhere.

The process of its manufacture is worth watching. In a huge bowl in the center of the room, a bowl large enough for half a dozen men to coil up in, the dough is placed, a big stone coming down on this and flattening it to the desired consistency, when it is cut into strips like plecrust, doubled over, and the big stone crushes it again until the proper elasticity is produced. Then it is turned into the gauges and forced through the holes in the bottom, plungers coming down on it during the process, and so giving it the hollow form familiar to lovers of the delicacy. It reaches its final stage, ready for the drying, in the form of a hairpin, and in this shape is hung up. If it is good macaroni it will not break while drying, but will hang in the hairpin form suspended by the bent part until it is dry.

All varieties of macaroni are made in the same way, and, whether it is sold as vermicelli, spaghetti or just plain macaroni, it is manufactured from the same wheat, deprived of its starchiness and allowed to retain only its glutinous properties. In this form it has been called "one of the seven delicacies of the world," and in the estimation of the Italians at least, doubtless deserves that description.

Albinen, a village in Switzerland, is built on precipice, and is only accessible by means of a succession of wooden ladders.

SNOWY CANDLEMAS.

Popular Superstitions Concerning the Day in This and Other Countries.

Forty days after Christmas comes Candlemas, when, according to popular superstition, the wolf, the badger and the bear ask no odds of the weather bureau, but come out of their holes to do a little prognosticating on their own account, says the New York Herald.

In Germany there are two proverbial expressions to convey the common idea. "The shepherd would rather see the wolf enter his stable an Candlemas Day than the sun" and "The badger peeps out of his hole on Candlemas Day, and when he finds snow he walks abroad; but if he sees the sun shining he draws back into his hole."

In this country the small boy, an apt student of local folk lore and tradition, adjusts his latest straw string watch fob and remarks, oracularly: "Well, ef the woodchuck kin see his shadder today when he comes out'n his hole an' looks aroun' that means a long winter yet. Pa says so."

Now is the belief that good weather on Candlemas Day is the index of a continuance of winter and of bad crops to follow, or that a stormy day is the harbinger of early spring, a matter of locality.

The same idea is expressed in a Latin distich given by Sir Thomas Brown in his "Vulgar Errors."

Si sol splendescat Maris purissimae,
Major erit glacies past fixtum quam fuit
ante,

while the Scotch embody their conclusions in the following rhyme:

If Candlemas Day be dry and fair,
The half o' winter's to come and fair,
If Candlemas Day be wet and foul,
The half o' winter's gone at Yule.

Very similar is the middle west's rhymed version of the popular belief:

As far as the sun shines out on Candlemas day,
So will the snow blow in before May;

As far as the snow blows on Candlemas Day,
So will the sun shine out before May.

So will the sun shine out before May.

The name Candlemas is supposed to be derived from the blessing of the candles by the Romish clergy and their distribution among the congregation, who afterward carry them in procession.

In England during Catholic times a special meaning was attached to the size of the candles and the manner in which they burned during the procession. If any fragment was left over it was believed to be possessed of strong supernatural virtues.

Scotland is especially rich in curious customs relative to Candlemas, which is also one of the four term days appointed for periodical annual payments of money, interest and taxes.

Huge Animals.

No extinct land animal of former ages had a bigger body than has the biggest African elephant of to-day, and not one, so far as is known, exceeded or even equaled, in total bulk the existing great whales, which sometimes are all of 100 feet long. As elephants, horses and similar animals are traced backward through the various strata they are found to get smaller and smaller. Some extinct elephants were no bigger than Shetland ponies, while the horses of prehistoric times were about the size of large dogs. In almost every group of hairy warm-blooded animals existing specimens are bigger than those of by-gone times, and the notion that there is any tendency in animal life to dwindle in size is entirely without foundation. There are, of course, exceptions, for the extinct sloths, kangaroos, lizards and some others exceeded in bulk existing creatures of the same order.

Her Reproof.

Two mischievous boys in school were laughing uproariously over some slight mistake one of the pupils had made in translation. The teacher looked at them, resignedly for a few minutes, and then remarked quietly:

"If anything really funny should ever happen in this class, I fear that Mr. Smith and Mr. Jones would require the services of a physician."—N. Y. Times.

Inherited Characteristics.

It is often remarked that the children of a great genius seldom exhibit corresponding powers. Nevertheless, Prof. Karl Pearson, as the result of investigations made in England, avers that, as a general rule, ability, probity, geniality and other psychical characters are inherited from parents as truly as physical characters are.

FOR JUDGE OF COURT OF APPEALS.

TO THE VOTERS OF THE FIFTH APPELLATE COURT OF KENTUCKY:—I am a candidate for Judge of the Court of Appeals from this District, subject to the action of the Democratic party. As Circuit Judge, it became my duty to try a number of criminal cases, which have become a part of the State's history and at a most critical time. As Judge of the State Fiscal Court, it fell to my lot to construe the Statutes adopted, to put in force the provisions of the new Constitution, as well as to construe the present Constitution whenever a controversy arose as to its proper construction. Almost innumerable cases have burdened the dockets of my court, touching the rights of corporations and the exercise of franchise under law. How well I have discharged my duties under such trying circumstances, is left to you to determine.

I will be very grateful to all who feel they can assist me to secure the high position and office to which I aspire.

Very respectfully,

JAMES E. CANTRELL.

The Doctor's Bill.

It looked for awhile in the Senate, at Frankfort, Wednesday, as if the members of that body would not at all agree with the measure which it took the representatives of the several schools of medicine a month to get together on. The discussion at times before the adoption of the bill was vigorous, but it finally settled down until the bill secured almost unanimous support. In the course of the remarks of Senator Sam DeHaren, of Oldham, in referring to the contentions of the practitioners of the different schools as to the representation they were entitled to he said: "Allopaths, homeopaths and osteopaths, and all other 'paths' in the medical profession might as well be recognized by State laws for, like the paths of glory, they lead but to the grave."

What the Farmer Makes.

The total income of all the workers of the nation in the year 1900 was $18,659,000,000. Of this immense value, $8,088,700,000 was produced on the farms. During the same year there were 5,737,372 families that obtained their living from these farms. This is an average income of $643 a year to each family. The other families of the nation, numbering 10,226,598, or nearly twice as many as the farming class, enjoyed a total income of $14,960,300,000, more than four times the value of the product of the farm. This was an average of $1,463 to each family not on the farm.

That the agriculturist should get less than half the income of the mechanic, the clerk and other non-rural workers would seem at first thought a pretty poor showing for the farm. But there are some weighty compensations, says George B. Waldron, the statistician, in Mahin's Magazine.

The farmer's income was exclusive of house rent. The city man must pay from 15 to 25 per cent. of his income to the landlord. The food bill of the average city family is above 40 per cent. of the total income; they pay all the profits from the farmer through various middlemen to the corner grocer.

With these various considerations it may easily be seen that an annual income of $400 on the farm represents as much or more than the city man gets.

JUDGE JOHN E. COOPER, of Mt. Sterling, former Circuit Judge in the Twenty-first Judicial District, has announced himself a candidate for Congress from the Tenth Congressional District.

VERDICT FOR $11,000.—At Harrodsburg, in the Circuit Court, the jury in the case of Owen Curd against the C. N. O. and T. P. railway, brought in a verdict for $11,000. Curd was injured in a wreck at Sunbright, Tenn., and brought suit for $22,000 damages.

LATER.—Lunsford gave himself up and Carter refuses to prosecute.

The Legislature.

The House yesterday passed the bill appropriating $75,000 for an addition to the Western Insane Asylum; also the bills providing for a change in the appointment of county boards of health and fixing the salary of the Jefferson Circuit Court stenographer at $2,500. The original Senate bill fixing the salary of the State Librarian at $1,200 annually and extending the term from two to four years was amended as to lengthening the term and allowing to remain at two years and passed. The only bill passed by the Senate was that prohibiting the sale of stocks of goods in bulk before creditors are notified.

The Senate passed the Bryon bill Wednesday requiring that National Banks in Kentucky be assessed by the State Board of Valuation, which now assesses State Banks. This same measure was defeated two years ago, but there never was any apparent reason why State Banks should be assessed for State taxation by the State Board, while National Banks were not assessed for State taxation by the county assessors.

The Hargis Bill to create a Hargis-Redwine judicial district encountered such opposition in the Senate that it will not be pushed. Instead a bill will be offered creating another district by putting Magoffin with Floyd and Knott counties, and leaving Breathitt in Judge Riddell's district.

The Senate has passed the agreed "doctors' bill," which provides that all doctors who apply for license to practice shall be examined as to qualifications whether they have a diploma or not and that the State Board of Examination shall not contain a majority of any one school of medicine.

Senator Cantrill introduced a bill in the Senate to create the new county of Thorne, to be named in honor of Lieutenant-Governor W. P. Thorne. The bill proposes to create a county from parts of counties Pulaski, Wayne and Whitley.

Senator Burnam has introduced a bill entitled, "An act requiring each county to establish a county hospital for treatment of contagious and eruptive diseases."

Bourbon County's Financial Condition.

As we have had numerous persons to ask us as to when the County Treasurer's report for 1903 would be published, according to law, we concluded to make an effort to get some figures in regard to it. This matter has been in the hands of the Finance Committee of the Fiscal Court for several weeks, and should have been published the first of January, but we will have to wait for our question of last issue to be answered before we can state when the full itemized official report will be made public. We are under obligations to the accommodating County Treasurer, Mr. C. M. Thomas, for the figures published below. The condition of County Treasury at close of business December 31, 1903, was as follows:

Total receipts from April to December 31, including loans, $14,664.54.

For The Public Good.

If the Health Officer, or the Sanitary Committee of our City Council, would make a visit to our opera house, in all probability they would cause a public nuisance to be abated, either by the manager or by the stockholders of the Grand Opera House Company.

The water company turned off the water supply at opera house some time ago, and there has been no drainage for the closets since. There is now quite a perceptible odor from the lack of sanitary condition of the house, and if there is any place where the sanitary conditions should be in good order it is in an opera house, where the public go and sit for hours to enjoy themselves.

Narrow Escape.

The fire department was summoned to the residence of Chas. Terry, on South Main, Tuesday, and while making a fast run down Main street one of the big bay horses slipped on a crossing and fell, and but for the skillful driver, Mr. Henry McGinley, who has his team so well trained, a most serious accident might have occurred, as the firemen were riding on the heavy chemical wagon. The horse is bruised considerable, but not at all seriously hurt. The fire was put out with the small chemical apparatus.

AT COST.—All Dry Goods going at cost.

A Suggestion.

Wouldn't it be a good idea when a still alarm is sent to the engine house calling the department out, that the alarm be turned in from the nearest box after they reach the fire, so as to notify our citizens what part of the city the fire is in. For instance, the alarm Tuesday was a still alarm, and the bell tapped five times, and remarked: "Well it is not in my neighborhood." But it was next door to his residence.

SOCIALDOM.

The Jolly Fellows' German Club entertained Monday evening with a Valentine German, which was one of the most delightful of the many attractive entertainments given by this club.

Mrs. Charlton Alexander, who is conceded by all to be the most popular of the many young matrons of our country, led the german, and by her gracious and winning way captivated all those present. The figures were unique and pretty, and, with the assistance of Mr. Alexander, were perfectly carried out.

The ball-room was beautifully and appropriately decorated with streamers of red and white extending from all sides to the center, forming a huge canopy overhead. Dozens of red hearts hung here and there and made a very conspicuous and striking addition to the already brilliantly lighted room. Surrounding the walls were portiers of red, also over the windows and doors were the same graceful hangings.

The favors were all emblematic and suggestive of the day in whose honor the cotillion was given—pretty hearts, valentines, boxes of candy, crepe paper muffs with cords for the neck. These were in pink, white, blue and red. There were also paper bows for the ladies and heart-shaped pin cushions for the gentlemen. Mrs. Alexander's favors, in compliment to the club, were bouquets of red carnations.

At twelve o'clock a delightful luncheon was served. The dancers were:

Mr. and Mrs. Charlton Alexander, Mr. John Spears and Miss Lizzie Mannen Turney, Mr. Oakford Hinton and Miss Lizzie Dickson, Mr. Hugh Brent and Miss Mary H. THE WONDER-MITE.

I wonder why he goes away
And don't come home again all day;
But, when I cry to see him go,
Looks down and says: "Now, Tot, you know,
You mischievous you with eyes of brown,
That pop's just got to go to town.
What shall I bring you? You just wait
Till I come home, old touse pate,
And you'll find out why pop's away
I'm on the muzzler 'fore all day."
And then I let him go, for I Know something's up, and by;
I wish though he'd cut out that spell
Or baby talk. It makes me feel
Like I am still a babe, you know.
And I was weaned two weeks ago.

He says: "I'm not to make ze fungs
To which oos baby fancy clings."
But why has he got to away
To make the things he doesn't say.
I'll be can make a pop-corn ball,
And saffy, oranges and all.
At all times like he be Glad to make them things by me!
But p'raps he thinks that I might see
Just how he makes such things for me.
And I might make a whole lot too
And eat and cause a big to-do
In what he calls by "tummy" and
Just make him walk to beat the band.
But now I'm hungry—I forgot!
I'm weaned! I wish I wasn't yet!

—J. M. Lewis, in Houston Post.

EIGHT days since the last glowing embers had gone, with a hissing and snarling voice, to add the name of the good ship Southern Cross to the list of derelicts at anchor in the ancient port of Missing Ships. The sun blazed from a white tropical sky on the oily surface of a flat calm. From rim to rim the sea was dull lead of gleaming gray, broken only by the occasional flash of a flying fish or the dull black dorsal fins of the sharks.

Two parched and sun-baked figures, all that were left of a crew of 20, sat staring at each other from opposite ends of a half-charred ship's boat, their eyes glowing with the fever of madness and their lips and tongues swollen and blackened with the tortures of thirst. The clothes hung in folds from their wasted frames as they crouched, mumbling and jibbering to themselves, in the sweltering heat of the calm.

"Eight days of the cursed sun and not a sail to be seen! Where have all the ships got to?"

For the hundredth time since dawn the mate worked the horizon with his glass in the vain hope of seeing something. Nothing broke the lonely monotony of that wide expanse of silent ocean beyond the equator.

"Things are coming to an end," he muttered, sinking back on the thwart.

"We squeezed the last drop out of the breaker yesterday morning, and that idiot for'ard spilled them, blast him."

"Look at him, there, chewing his fingers. Why does he stare at me so? His eyes are like red-hot gimlets; they seem to bore right through me. He thinks I'll go off my head, and then he'll kill me as he would have done the last if I'd hot choked him off. Said a lot about the survival of the fittest and that the weak should be given for the strong. I wonder who'll go next, he or I? We gave the others to the sharks one by one at night, poor boys, and tried not to see. And now, who'll help me with him, for he's sure to go, he's got to go, he's got to get a move on him; I won't have any soldering.

"Hi! there, you! Yes, you for'ard there! Who are you looking at? Get on with your work! Do you think this is a pleasure yacht, you floundered son of a deck-walloper! Come to sea to get fat, do you? I'll soon take some of that off you! None of your back talk, now! I'll have no sea-lawyers on this ship!"

"There, there, this won't do! Keep a grip on yourself, Mister Mate. If you want to get out of this mess! I believe I was beginning to feel a bit queer just then!"

"Now, let me see. I'll try to think a bit and get my mind off this little picnic. Where were we when the fire broke out? Oh! I know. We had passed St. Helena, and were beginning to make a little easting, so as to pick up the sou'east trade. Hang it all, he's looking at me again! It had just gone eight bells at the end of the middle watch, and the old man had been up in his pyjamas to look at the card he was always poking about when I should have been asleep, so I had the watch ait to take a pull at the braces to make all shipshape before turning in, when Forsyth came to me and said the air in his cabin was that thick he couldn't sleep, and wanted me to go down with him and see what I could make of it. Thought he smelled smoke; said he was so used to bad smells in the ship, he couldn't be sure. Just then the second came up to take over the watch, and we went below. Talk about smells. Why, the air was as thick as pea soup with smoke, and the fiddle-headed old Soothsman couldn't smell it! Well, we roused the old man out and turned the hands up and got the hatches open. The place was a merry hell down there! She was a-fire fore and aft! There wasn't a ghost of a chance of saving her, although we worked till the pitch bubbled out of the deck. The old man swore we were cowards when we said we had had enough, and wanted to get the boats out. Said he would shoot the first man who—Get away! you yellow-headed Dutchman! If you come aft I'll maul the damed head off you with a strecter, you hog-backed molly-grubber!"

He ripped out a foot-rest, staggered to his feet, fell over athwart, and lay with his face staring at the white sun overhead. A grim came over the silent one in the bow, and his hand stole around to the sheath knife at his hip. His eyes glowed with the dull-red like those of a hungry wolf, while the lips drew back from the yellow fangs as he crawled towards the prostrate man in the stern.

He paused ere he reached him, and his breath came in hot gasps, while the veins stood out in black cords on his neck and forehead. Then the red went out of his eyes, and he shuddered and looked away. With a dry choking sob he hurled the knife far into the sea, and crept back to his place in the bow.

Hours passed and the sun stole down towards the west, while the fins of the sharks, like the black sails of death, glided silently round and round the little boat, their gaunt shadows showing beneath the oily smoothness of the sea.

The mate stirred and dragged himself up, and sat with his back against the gunwale.

"Hello! I must have been asleep! What station was that we just passed? Hayle, was it? We're nearly there now, only two more stops! What a surprise for Polly! I wonder if the kiddy has grown. It's a long time since I saw them, and they don't know I'm coming. I've got some nice things for them, too. Let me see! There's that piece of China silk for the missus, and an ostrich's egg, and some of them little shells the negroes use for money away down in the islands. There's a monkey and a parrot for the little one along with those little ships I made on the way out—nice little ships—ships with their holds full of fire—sharks—dead men—and—Oh, yes! it's that greasy steward again—the dago—he's late with my tea. I can tell you there's going to be a lot of changes in this ship when we get in. There's a Dutchman for'ard who's got to go anyhow. Before we go to sea again I am going to have her decks chipped, and the sidelights put forward. I don't believe in carrying them aft; she fines away to much, you can't see them if you have your courses down. I wish they would quit pounding for awhile, the old man always seems to start them pounding when it's my watch below. That's the worst of iron ships, you don't get quite so much groaning and creaking perhaps; but then you have to make up for it when they start knocking the rust off her. How unsociable everyone is! Say, you over there! Come, drink up and we'll have another all round, it's my shout! Phew, how hot it is, hot enough to drink up the ocean! Why don't they shut off some of this sun? What a Godforsaken place it is anyhow! I don't believe there is a God—if there is—if there is he owes me something to drink, curse!—What? Who spoke? What? Oh, yes, it's that Dutchman in the bow, of course. No; it couldn't have been him. See how black he's gone—he's dead—dead, and I'll be the next. Look at his tongue—I'd better pitch him over—he's pretty to look at. Guess I'll canvas him up and wait till sunset and the thing ship-shape. It won't be long now, the sun is getting quite low and red; we'll have wind to-morrow. Look at those little clouds up there, a sure sign of wind—little yellow wind clouds all round the sun—how curious they look! They seem to form a golden cross behind the sun. I wonder if it is the sun? I can't seem to see quite so well as I did awhile back. It looks to me like face—and—it's coming nearer—I can see it now, it's a face with a crown of scarlet thorns. What's all that got to do with me? Hang it all, how my throat hurts! Why the flaming—don't some ship come along and get me out of this? If only the wind comes to-night I'll cheat those beastly sharks out of a feed—I'll cheat 'em—I'll cheat the devil—I'll cheat God! That voice again! What a row my ears are making, I can't hear anything. That voice! What did it say? I have suffered. Suffered! yes, of course, I've suffered—suffered with a thirst—and with Dutchmen—and with sun—and—and—O God, help me to pray! Help me to pray for the dear ones at home—for the dear ones at home who are waiting! God guide and watch over them to-night, for to-morrow—for to-morrow they will be alone in the world! Good-by, Polly, I shan't be long, and this will be my last voyage, I promise! Good-by sonny, dad—dad—will be—b-a-c-k—s-o-o-n—"—Baltimore American.

IN PRAIRIE LAND.

(Editorial Correspondence)
MOOSE JAW, Assiniboina.

Farmers' Review, Chicago, July 22, 1903.
"Most of the prairies in the United States have ceased to exist. Man has broken them up with orchards, forests and farm buildings. But in Western Canada the prairies still stretch grandly from horizon to horizon as yet unmarred by the hand of man, save where the iron road has been laid. To a city man there is something deliciously restful about the vast grassy solitude."

"Numerous clumps of trees mark the course of the Assiniboina River, which keeps in sight of the railroad for some distance. Grass is one of the notable things about all the landscape of Western Canada. It is a remarkable fact that the entire length of the Canadian Pacific railway from its eastern terminus to the Rocky mountains is over plains where grass grows. The sage brush appears at some points, but never to the exclusion of grass. There is thus not a mile of this country that cannot be used for some agricultural purpose—either for tilling or ranching."

"Moose Jaw is a town of over 2,000 inhabitants and one of the most important places in Assiniboina, being the center of a very good farming country and a great grain and stock shipping point."

"Near Moose Jaw agriculture and ranching go hand in hand; for near the town was seen a herd of beef cattle several hundred in number. On another side was seen a good sized herd of dairy cows, the property of the citizens in the town."

"In riding over the prairies we saw many good fields of alfalfa. The great need of the country is timber, which grows readily where planted, as was demonstrated by the shelter belts on some of the farms, and the trees on the residence lots in the town."

"Stories were told the writer of men who last year cleared from their wheat crop more than the land on which it was grown originally cost them. This is easy to believe in view of the large crop and high price for wheat last year.—Henry F. Thurston."

"By sending your address to any agent of the Canadian Government you will have mailed to you a copy of an Atlas, railway rates, etc., giving fullest information regarding Western Canada."

HONEYMOON PSYCHOLOGY.

She said something that rubbed him the wrong way.

Seeing the look of pique on his face she cried:

"Oh, my darling, my darling! I have hurt you!"

"No, my dearest," he replied gravely, "the hurt I feel is due to the fact that I know it hurts you to feel that you have hurt me."

"Ah no! Do not let that hurt you for an instant. My hurt is because I know it hurts you to feel that I have hurt myself by hurting you."

"No, my precious. My hurt is because you are hurt over feeling that I am hurt because you feel that you have hurt me, and are therefore hurt yourself."

"Let us leave them, dear reader. They will get over it in time.—Baltimore American."

TO SMOKE WITHOUT HARM.

Tobacco poisoning has long been made a subject of investigation by Prof. Furst of the University of Leipzig, Germany, who finds that tobacco may be smoked without injury to the smoker by observing the following precautions: (1) Use only mild tobacco; (2) smoke only good tobacco; (3) do not smoke the last half of a cigar or the end of a cigarette; (4) if a cigar or cigarette goes out do not re-light it; (5) do not sit in a room filled with the fumes of tobacco; (6) do not chew the end of a cigar; (7) use a cigar holder or a cigarette holder with a bit of cotton to catch the nicotine; (8) at home smoke only pipes with long stems and preferably a nargileh.—Chicago Tribune.

ASTRONOMY IN AMERICA.

The astronomer royal at the annual dinner of the Society of Engineers said that the American astronomers really seemed to monopolize the whole of the science. They had gone ahead, he was sorry to say, even of English astronomers. The progress they had made was due, as much as to anything else, to the fact that they had been able to get larger funds for the construction of their telescopes. As it advanced the science of engineering involved costly works, and, unfortunately in England, it was very difficult to get sufficient money to provide these costly works that were essential to the advancement of science.

REFLECTION ON THE MILKMAN.

Wayne MacVeagh, the lawyer and diplomat, was on the outskirts of Philadelphia an admirable stock farm. One day last summer some poor children were permitted to go over this farm, and when their inspection was done to each of them was given a glass of milk.

The milk was excellent. It came, it fact, from a $2,000 cow.

"Well, boys, how do you like it?" the farmer asked when they had all drained their glasses.

"Gee! Fine," said one little fellow. Then, after a pause, he added: "I wish our milkman keep a cow."

ALL IN A MINUTE.

We do good many things in a minute; for instance, we are whirled on the outside of the earth just 13 miles and have gone around the sun 1,089 miles; a ray of light has traveled 11,000,000 miles; the lowest sound your ear can catch has made 980 vibrations, the loudest tone, 2,228,000 vibrations; 24 barrels of beer have gone down 12,096 throats; 2673 cigars have been made; 300 tons of coal have been mined and $66 worth of gold has been extracted from Mother Earth.

A DIFFICULT TASK.

That Pittsburg man who was to walk around the world in seven years has yet to cross the Atlantic and, says the Chicago Record-Herald, experts figure seven years as good time in which to walk across that duck pond.

IMPROVED COMMUNICATION.

New Boats Added to the Number Employed in Austro-American Shipping.

The Austro-American line has acquired a number of new vessels during the past year, and has now a fleet of 19 steamers. This has enabled the company to make arrangements for a greatly improved service. There will be hereafter, besides the former semi-monthly sailings to New York, a sailing every three weeks to Philadelphia and every five weeks to Boston and Baltimore. As full cargoes cannot always be secured here, some of the ships will call on their westward voyage at Greek, Sicilian and Spanish ports. From the United States the company will have regular semi-monthly sailings from Savannah and New Orleans and monthly sailings from Galveston.

The company has recently entered into a joint tariff agreement with the Louisville & Nashville Railroad company, in consequence of which goods from any point on that company's line will be carried to Mediterranean and Adriatic ports with only one trans-shipment at Pensacola. This arrangement will prove of decided advantage to our southern shippers, as their goods will be less liable to be delayed or to suffer damage in transit.

The Austro-American has furthermore added to its service a new line between Trieste and Veracruz, Mexico. The steamers of this line, which will also call at intermediate ports, have each accommodation for about 150 passengers.

In view of the constantly increasing flow of trans-Atlantic migration from Austria-Hungary, the managers of the Austro-American have for some time been considering the advisability of adapting a portion of their fleet to the carrying of emigrants, but so far no definite conclusion has been reached. This irresolution has probably aided in bringing about the recent decision of the Cunard company to have some of its passenger steamers ply during the coming winter, between New York and the principal ports of Italy and Austria-Hungary for the transportation of second class and steerage passengers, at rates which promise to compete successfully with the northern lines. The steamers have been fitted for carrying each 1,000 steerage passengers, besides several hundred saloon passengers, and will make the trip from Trieste to New York in twenty days. They are said to be superior emigrant ships, being even equipped with Marconi's system of wireless telegraphy.

SPANISH HEMATITE ORE.

Much of the Output Has Found Ready Sale in the United States.

A vein of hematite iron ore, rich in quality necessary for the making of red paint for structural ironwork, has been discovered near the city of Jaen, in the province of that name, which has been worked during the past year and much of the output has found ready sale in the United States. A reported marked decrease in the output of ore of this class in the United States has probably stimulated the interest of American paint manufacturers in the Malaga product—so much so, in fact, that an eastern state paint firm seriously contemplated the purchase of an interest in the mine. Failure to reach a satisfactory agreement with the local owners has, it appears, checked the deal. It seems hardly probable, however, that the original plan will be carried out. This contemplated the formation of an American corporation which would control the output of the mine. The present outlook is that this idea has been abandoned and that the matter will result only in an additional quantity of ore being supplied. The mine is 10 miles from Malaga, but the ore is brought here by rail and prepared for shipment, both in its crude state and refined, at a plant on the outskirts of this city.

INCOME TAXES IN SAXONY.

The total taxable incomes of the people of Saxony for the year 1902 was $2,286,720,350 marks ($54,239,443), as against 2,263,380,172 marks ($53,684,481) for the preceding year, showing an increase of 23,340,178 marks ($5,554,962) for the year 1902, the smallest that has been recorded for many years. In 1901 the total taxable incomes aggregated 59,300,000 marks ($14,113,400) over the amount of the year 1900. The annual increase from 1896 to 1900 was more than 100,000,000 marks ($23,800,000). Here we find a forcible illustration of the continuing industrial depression. Closed factories, decreased dividends, lack of employment, half salaries, etc.—these are the unmistakable proofs of trade lethargy.

FARM IMPLEMENTS IN AUSTRIA.
American farm machinery does not find a ready sale here. Cheap labor, small farms, and the very stony and hilly character of the land render the employment of machinery unprofitable, and sometimes impossible. But I am satisfied that many of our farm and garden tools could be successfully introduced if systematic effort were made by our manufacturers to bring them to the general attention of Austrian farmers and gardeners. Dealers will not, as a rule, import an article unless a demand for it has first been created.

FOR THIRTY YEARS

Congressman Meekison Suffered With Catarrh—Read His Endorsement of Pe-ru-na.

CONGRESSMAN MEEKISON, OF OHIO.

Hon. David Meekison is well known, not only in his own State but throughout the country as Mayor of the town in which he lives, during which time he became widely known as the founder of the Meekison Bank of Napoleon, Ohio. He was elected to the Fifty-fifth Congress by a very large majority, and is the acknowledged leader of his party in his section of the State.

Only one flaw marred the otherwise complete success of this rising statesman. Catarrh with its insidious approach and tenacious grasp, was his only unconquered foe. For thirty years he waged unsuccessful warfare against this personal enemy. At last Peruna came to the rescue, and he dictated the following letter to Dr. Hartman as the result:

"I have used several bottles of Peruna and I feel greatly benefited thereby from my catarrh of the head. I feel encouraged to believe that if I use it a short time longer I will be fully able to eradicate the disease of thirty years' standing." —David Meekison, ex-Member of Congress.

THE season of catching cold is upon us. The cough and the sneeze and nasal twang are to be heard on every hand. The origin of chronic catarrh, the most common and dreadful of diseases, is cold.

This is the way the chronic catarrh generally begins. A person

WASHINGTON

THE FATHER of HIS COUNTRY

Why We Delight to Celebrate Washington's Birthday.

"BORN upon our soil—of parents also born upon it—never for a moment having had sight of the old world—instinctively according to the modes of his time, only in the spare, plain, but wholesome elementary knowledge which our institutions provide for the children of the people—growing up beneath and penetrated by the genuine influences of American society—living from infancy to manhood and age amidst our expanding, but not luxurious civilization—partaking in our great destiny of labor, our long contest with unreclaimed nature and uncivilized man —our agony of glory, the war of independence—our great victory of peace, the formation of the union, and the establishment of the constitution—he is all, all our own. Washington is ours."

GEORGE WASHINGTON

The foregoing was written by Daniel Webster in regard to the Father of His Country, the anniversary of whose birth occurs February 22, an occasion that is ever freshly remembered by American hearts. "He was the first man of the time in which he grew," wrote Rufus Choate. "His memory is first and most sacred in our love; and ever, hereafter, till the last drop of blood shall freeze in the last American heart, his name shall be a spell of power and might. There is one personal, one vast, felicity which no man can share with him. It was the daily beauty and towering and matchless glory of his life which enabled him to create his country, and at the same time secure an undying love and regard from the whole American people. Undoubtedly there were braves and wise and good men before his day in every colony. But the American nation, as a nation, I do not reckon to have begun before 1774, and the first love of that young America was Washington. The first word she spied was his name. Her earliest breath spoke it. It is still her proud ejaculation. It will be the last gasp of her expiring life. About and around him we call up no dissident, disordant and dissatisfied elements, no sectional prejudice or bias, no party, no creed, no dogma of politics. None of these shall assail him. Yes, when the storm of battle grows darkest and rages highest, the memory of Washington shall nerve every American arm and cheer every American heart. It shall tell him that Promethean fire, that sublime flame of patriotism, that devoted love of country which his words have commended, which his example has consecrated."

The story of George Washington's life is an old one, but the salient facts will bear repeating. He was born at Wakefield, Westmoreland county, Va., February 22, 1732. Lived from 1732 to 1739 at what is now Mount Vernon, and when he was seven years old he was taken to an estate on the Rappahannock almost opposite Fredericksburg. The latter was one of the prosperous planters of Virginia, able to give his children what education the times could afford. The first teacher of George is reputed to have been a convict, whom his father bought for the purpose. All of Washington's schooling ended before he was 16. His long and brilliant career as a soldier and statesman has given to history some of its most interesting pages.

"It was strange," wrote Thackeray, "that in a savage forest of Pennsylvania a young Virginia officer should fire a shot, and awaken up a war that was to last for 60 years, which was to cover his own country, and pass into Europe, to cost France her American colonies, to sever ours from us and create the great western republic; to rage over the old world when extinguished in the new; and, of all the myriads engaged in the vast contest, to leave the prize of the greatest fame with him who struck the first blow."

As to the esteem and affection in which the name and character of Washington were held one cannot do better than quote Lafayette, who wrote from France as follows:

"Were you but such a man as Julius Caesar, or the king of Prussia, I should almost be sorry for you at the end of the great tragedy where you are acting such a part. But, with my dear general, I rejoice at the blessings of a peace when our noble ends have been secured. Remember our Valley Forge times; and, from a recollection of past dangers and labors, we shall be still more pleased at our present comfortable situation. I cannot but envy the happiness of my grandchildren, when they will be about celebrating and worshipping your name. To have one of their ancestors among your soldiers, to know he had the good fortune to be the friend of your heart, will be the eternal honor in which they shall glory."

The poet Shelley, aboard an American ship, drinking to the health of Washington and the prosperity of the American commonwealth, remarked: "As a warrior and statesman he was righteous in all he did, unlike all who lived before or since; he never used his power but for the benefit of his fellow-creatures."

Ostentations.

An Atchison man tells the Globe about his uncle, an Irishman, who suddenly became rich. The first thing he did was to buy the best pew in the church. When Sunday rolled around the Irishman walked grandly down the aisle, carrying a silk hat and elegant overcoat. He found two strange women occupying his seat—one alone out, he said, the other with a man. The women were very much shocked, and walked out, their heads hanging in shame. "Now, then, ladies," the Irishman said, "oblige me by walking back. I just wanted to show you who owned this pew."

Jesse L. Limes, M. D., of St. John, Kansas, says:

"I prescribed Dodd's Kidney Pills for the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. McBride of this place, who suffered from Epileptic fits following Scarletina; results were miraculous; I have never seen anything like it."

Leland Williamson, M. D., of Yorktown, Ark., says:

"Dodd's Kidney Pills are the best medicine I know of for all forms of Kidney Disease. I believe in using the remedy that relieves and cures my patients, whether ethical or not, and I always prescribe Dodd's Kidney Pills and can testify that they invariably accomplish a permanent and perfect cure of all Kidney Complaints."

CLARKE & CO. RELY UPON HYOMEI.

CURES COLDS, COUGHS, CATARRH AND GRIP. JUST BREATHE IT.

Hyomei is nature's own method for curing catarrh, colds, coughs and diseases of the respiratory organs. It is the only natural treatment for the cure of these

Breathed through the neat pocket inhaler that comes with every outfit, the air passes into the throat and lungs, is identical with that on the mountains, where it is laden with healing and health-giving balsams. It searches out and kills disease germs in the most remote and minute air cells of the head, throat and lungs, it soothes and heals all irritation of the mucous membrane.

Hyomei is prescribed by physicians generally. Many of them use it themselves to break up a cold and prevent pneumonia.

The complete Hyomei outfit consists of a neat inhaler, that is so small and convenient that it can be carried in the pocket or purse, a medicine dropper and a bottle of Hyomei. This costs but $1, and it will cure any ordinary case of catarrh. In chronic and deep seated conditions, longer use is necessary and extra bottles of Hyomei can be obtained for 50c, making it a most economical treatment for this disease.

Clarke & Co. have so much confidence in the power of Hyomei to cure catarrh and other diseases of the throat and lungs that they sell it under their personal guarantee to refund the money to any purchaser in case it fails to give satisfaction. They take all the risk themselves, and Hyomei costs you absolutely nothing unless it does you good.

Good Spirits.

Good spirits don't all come from Kentucky. Their main source is the liver—and all the fine spirits ever made in the Blue Grass State could not remedy a bad liver or the hundred-and-one ill effects it produces. You can't have good spirits and a bad liver at the same time. Your liver must be in fine condition if you would feel buoyant, happy and hopeful, bright of eye, light of step, vigorous and successful in your pursuits. You can put your liver in fine condition by using Green's August Flower—the greatest of all medicines for the liver and stomach and a certain cure for dyspepsia or indigestion. It has been a favorite household remedy for over thirty-five years. August Flower will make your liver healthy and active and thus insure you a liberal supply of "good spirits." Trial size, 25c; regular bottles, 75c. At all druggists.—W. T. Brooks.

LIMESTONE, Scotch and Chicken Cock whisky at Central Bar.

DO IT TO-DAY.

The time-worn injunction, "Never put off 'til to-morrow what you can do to-day," is now generally presented in this form: "Do it to-day!" That is the terse advice we want to give you about that hacking cough or demolishing cold with which you have been struggling for several days, perhaps weeks. Take some reliable remedy for it to-day—and let that remedy be Dr. Boschree's German Syrup, which has been in use for over thirty-five years. A few doses of it will undoubtedly relieve your cough or cold, and its continued use for a few days will cure you completely. No matter how deep-seated your cough, even if dread consumption has attacked your lungs, German Syrup will surely effect a cure—as it has done before in thousands of apparently hopeless cases of lung trouble. New trial bottles, 25c; regular size, 75c. At all druggists.—W. T. Brooks.
